World Book Day Thursday 1st March 2018

Dear Parents,

For World Book Day this year we will be focusing on the book "The Day the Crayons Quit" by Drew Daywalt. We will be working in mixed age groups throughout the day completing a variety of activities based around this story.

We are asking all of the children to dress up in a single colour to represent the different colour crayons. So for example a child could be the blue crayon by wearing blue jeans and a blue top or a blue dress. We hope to keep this simple for parents this year.

We will also be using World Book Day to launch our participation in 100 Million Minutes Reading Challenge. This is a National initiative to encourage children to read. During the time period 1st – 9th March we will be asking our children to keep a note of how many minutes they read each day. This will then be added to a whole school total and submitted to the organisers. There are prizes for the schools who log the most minutes per pupil during the reading challenge. Pupils can read to each other, themselves or listen to stories being read to them. We hope you will support your child to help them develop a love of reading.

Thank you for your continued support.

Kind regards

K. McGrath-Wells
